March Aflutter

On March 14, Learn About Butterflies Day, no one expects you to learn about all 20,000 types of butterflies in the world. You might, however, be amazed to learn that the Queen Alexandra's birdwing butterfly, found in Papua New Guinea's rain forest, has a wingspan of one foot. As a caterpillar, this species eats the poisonous pipevine plant that other animals won't dare eat for fear of being poisoned. The glasswinged butterfly of Central and South America has transparent wings. North America's question mark butterfly has a silver mark on the underside of its wing that looks just like—you guessed it—a question mark. Otherwise, it is cleverly disguised with a camouflage pattern that makes it look like a dead leaf. Love butterflies? Plant a butterfly garden with plants that attract these beautiful creatures.
